REGULATIONS.

1.—Every member who shall not be indebted to the Corporation for any annual payment, or for fines or forfeitures incurred by him or her, and whose name shall be entered in the Treasurer's Register, shall, for every right owned by him or her, be entitled to receive from the Librarian, during the hours appointed for the Library to be open, four works at a time, of which not more than one shall be a new work.

New books may be kept one week only. Other books may be kept three weeks, with the privilege of renewal, unless other members have applied for them.

2.—The ownership of a share shall not give the privileges of the Library to more than one person and to his or her household.

If the ownership is vested in an estate or corporation, the privileges shall be restricted to such person and to his or her immediate household as may be designated by the executors of the estate or by the corporation.

3.—No person, whether member or not, shall lend any book belonging to the corporation to any person out of his dwelling-house.

4.—Any member who shall detain a book longer than the times above limited, respectively, shall forfeit and pay for every day such book shall be detained beyond the time so limited, one cent.

5.—If any member lose or damage a book, he shall make good the same to the Library; and if the book lost or injured be one of a set, he shall pay, to the Treasurer, for the use of the corporation, the value of the entire set, and may thereupon receive for himself the residue of the whole set.

6.—The Librarian may let out books to persons not being members of the corporation, upon such terms and conditions as shall from time to time be prescribed by the Library Committee. But, if a member and a person who is not a member, should apply for the same book at the same time, the member shall have the preference.

7.—A member, besides the books he may be entitled to as a member, may take as many as he pleases on the same terms as persons who are not members.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

TRUSTEES OF THE NEW YORK SOCIETY LIBRARY.

The Trustees of the New York Society Library present the following account of their doings as such Trustees for the year ending March 31st, 1910.

Our messengers carried 43,890 books between Bowling Green and 152d Street. In addition, more than 9,000 were taken by members who came personally to the library, and about 2,500 volumes were sent to the country by express.

The Report of the Treasurer hereto appended shows the financial condition of the library.

The Trustees take pleasure in recording continued growth and prosperity. More perpetually free shares have been sold in the past year than during any fiscal year since the present building was erected in 1856. According to a resolution passed by the Board of Trustees in 1886, this money becomes a part of the permanent invested fund.

Our temporary subscriptions which amounted to about $200 in 1900, were more than $3,000 during the year covered by this report.

This large increase is due to our members and subscribers, who have sent their friends to enjoy the unexcelled literary privileges which are afforded.

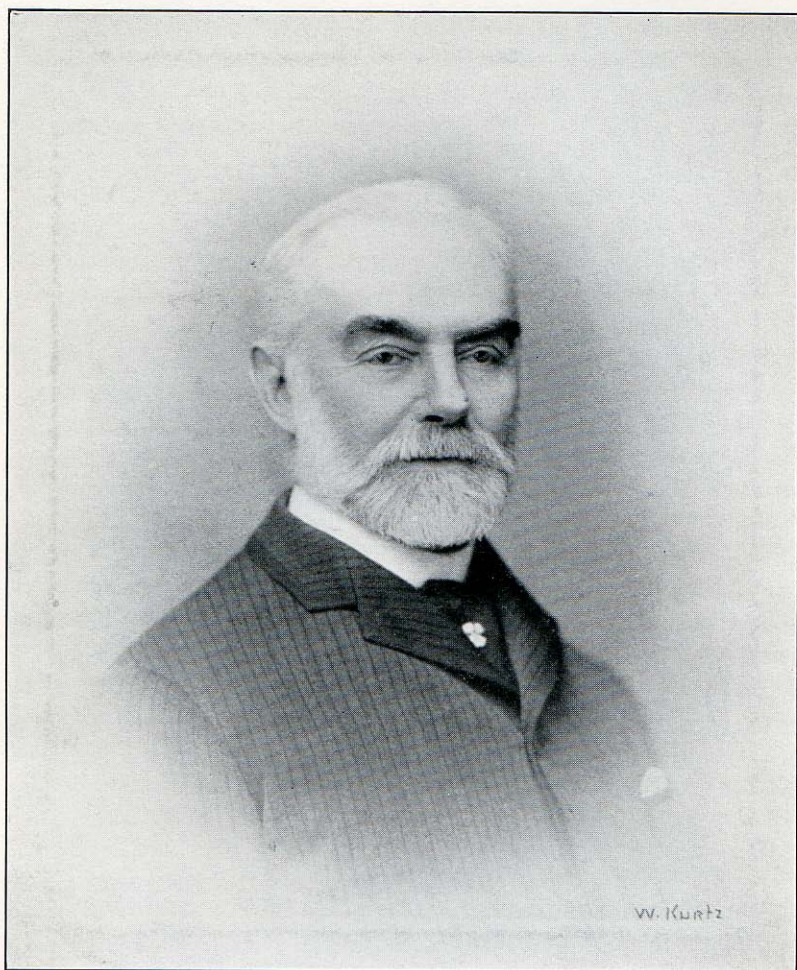

That the Library is appreciated by scholars as well as by those interested in current literature only, is shown by the preface to "The History of New York in the Seventeenth Century," published in 1909, in which the author says:

"About the Society Library I must say a further word. While it does not offer the student manuscript material or such a vast array of books as are gathered together in public and university collections, it serves him in ways that they cannot attempt. It owns many books old, rare, or very costly, that one would scarcely expect it to have; and almost everything it owns it will lend with a lavish generosity, even books which everywhere else are piously kept on reference shelves. I need not explain to other writers the immense difference between using a book in a public library and using it at home in as leisurely a manner as one may wish. But for their benefit as well as to discharge a debt of gratitude I am glad of the chance to say that the existence of the Society Library has saved me what would have run into many months of tedious labor within other walls, labor as exasperating to the mind as exhausting to the body. It is the oldest library in the city, and its story as recently written by Mr. Austin Baxter Keep, forms an interesting chapter in the eighteenth and nineteenth century history of New York. May it enlarge its historical collection as widely as possible and continue to serve the student as helpfully and as graciously as now it does."

The wide scope of the activity of the Society Library is not generally apprehended, owing to the fact that it does not advertise and the annual reports do not dwell on minute particulars of administration. Books are sent by mail and express to Europe and Canada, and in the United States to Maine, to Florida, to California or wherever Society or individual members resort. Parcels are sent regularly to members whether residing temporarily or permanently outside of New York City. The Library has facilities for supplying private schools and clubs, properly recommended, and already has a considerable number of them, in New York and other states among its patrons.

In order to be able to avail themselves of an opportunity to move further uptown at the proper time, the Trustees propose to open a Building Fund and will transfer $1,000 to this Fund from the income of the General Fund. They invite contributions, small or large, in cash, pledges, bequests or real estate suitable for a new site. Among our members are many wealthy benefactors who have built and endowed libraries for other institutions, and the Trustees express the hope that some of our friends will provide land in a central situation and that in a few years sufficient funds will be contributed to erect a building there.

The current income of the library is enough only to meet actual running expenses.

Many valuable and interesting gifts have been received during the year. Mr. Beverly Chew has made complete our set of exhibition catalogues and year books of the Grolier Club. Dr. T Matlack Cheesman has presented a two-shilling note of the New York Water Works printed in 1776 by Hugh Gaine. The Honorable Gherardi Davis has sent the second supplement to his "Regimental Colors in the War of the Revolution," with plates beautifully colored by Mrs. Davis. The edition is limited to 125 copies. Mr Frederic de P Foster has presented the "New York Law Journal" from 1902 with the current numbers. Mr. Thatcher M. Brown has given a copy of "One Hundred Years of Merchant Banking," by John Crosby Brown, privately printed. From Mr. Marshall C. Lefferts were received five maps of early New York, showing the names of prominent citizens and location of their homes in 1653; the Hudson River at the time of its discovery; the Island of Manhattan in 1609, with elevations, water courses, etc., and New York city in 1730 and 1783.

Numerous other valuable gifts have been received which are highly appreciated and the names of the donors are noted in the list annexed to this report.

The Trustees have also acquired 65 views of old New York, signed proofs, engraved by Samuel Hollyer, comprising old taverns, churches, theatres, mansions, etc., most of which have vanished in the feverish march of progress. These will increase in value as the years go by.

A collection of about 2,000 rare political and controversial pamphlets of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries which have been in the possession of the library for over a century, but have never been catalogued, are now being carefully analyzed and entered in the card catalogue. The Trustees have just issued a revised edition of the History, Charter, and By-laws of the Library. The historical sketch furnishes interesting comment on the rise in real estate values in the various portions of the city in which the library has been located at different periods. Many abuses had gradually arisen in the use of shares, which the Trustees have endeavored to correct, by changes in the by-laws.

In conclusion, while every year of the last decade has shown improvement, the past year indicates more strongly than ever a bright future for the oldest library in New York State.
